S E N I O R

FRANK V. MURPHY

"Res non verba" is the motto best suited for Frank. He didn't talk; he did. The fact that he played football and basketball, is president of the Senior Class and business manager of the school paper speaks for itself.

JASPER LABARBARA

Jasper is vice-president of the Senior Class, is a member of the Journal staff, and, as Coach Robert Kelly expressed it, "the best fullback St. Mary's ever produced."

Marian

O F F I C E R S

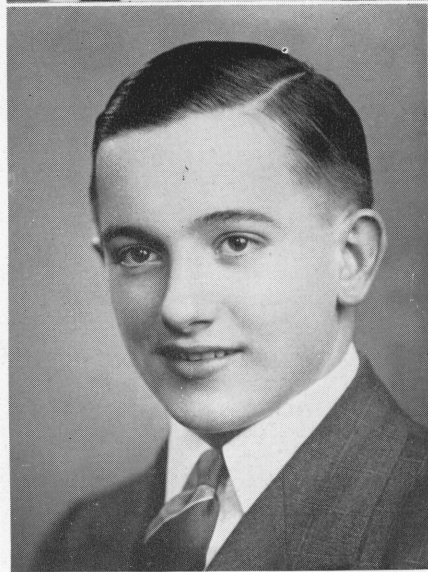

FRANCES PIACENTINO

Besides being a class officer, Frances is prefect of the sodality, an officer of the Cheero Club, and organist for the choir. She was elected to be attendant in the May crowning.

JOHN COCHRAN

John, whose position as first football manager in thirteen years was not too easy, is treasurer of the Senior Class, and is on the circulation staff of the school paper.

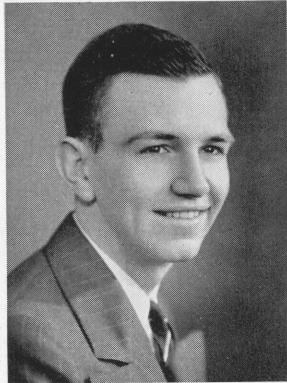

Seniors

MARY BARNHART

Mary's willingness to help in all class activities has won for her the friendship of all her associates. She is a member of the Journal staff.

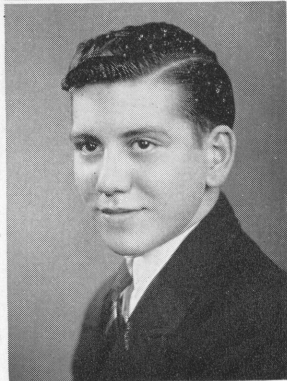

EARL BENT

Earl has been on the circulation staff of the St. Mary Journal for the past year. His willingness to cooperate has made "our class life" a more pleasant one.

MARY BERRIDGE

According to stature, Mary may be described as a "wee miss" just reaching the five foot mark. She is an active member of the choir and excels in shorthand.

ANTHONY CASERTA

"Tony" has contributed his share to the school paper in a manner so gracious as to deserve commendation. He promises to be a successful salesman.

Class of 1938

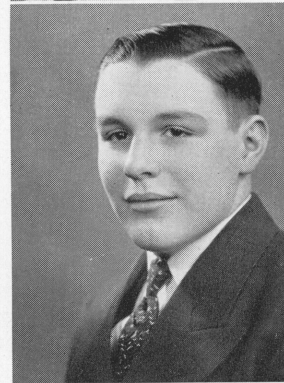

ELEANOR CHENEY

Eleanor is the feature editor of the Journal. Her willing pen has been one of the leading assets of this paper, and her dignified manner has set her up as a competitor to Emily Post.

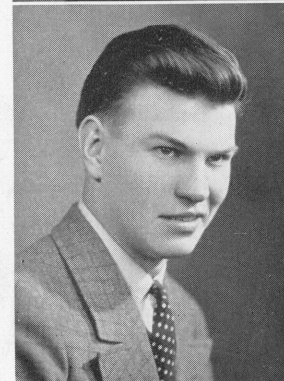

ANGELINE CICERO

Angeline has a keen liking for argument and makes a good debater. She sings in the choir and is a particularly good student in bookkeeping.

HENRY P. DRAKE

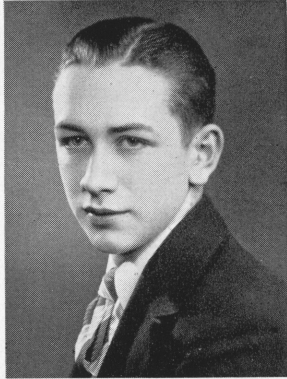

"Von" as he is commonly called, has been honored as "the most outstanding football player at St. Mary's." He writes for the sports sheet of the Journal, and is also a basketball letterman.

WALTER P. DRAKE

Walter, the pride and joy of the senior class, is a born leader, and it can be truthfully said that his class could not get along without him. He is editor of the Journal, president of the Cheero Club, and editor of the annual.

Seniors

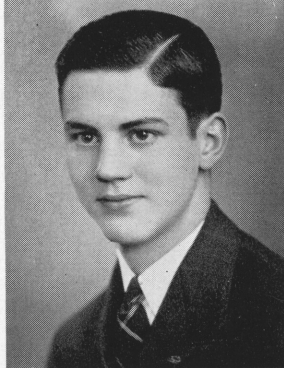

JAMES FEIDNER

"Jim" is one of the more versatile athletes of St. Mary's. His outstanding performances in football, basketball, handball, and baseball have boosted our teams many degrees. Besides being an athlete, he can be depended upon to cooperate in any class activity.

MARY FINNEGAN

Mary, good-natured and capable, possesses a friendly disposition. She is a talented speaker and a good debater.

JOSEPH E. GUNDER

"Joe" whose hearty laugh, interesting conversations, and ability to think up a ridiculous situation will long be remembered by his friends, is a basketball letterman, and one of the most loyal members of his class.

FREDERICK HOUK

Fred's dignity and natural good manners have marked him out for success in future paths. He is an officer of the Catholic Students' Mission Crusade.

Class of 1938

VIRGINIA HURLEY

If a vote were taken to find the persons most likely to succeed, Virginia would undoubtedly rank high. She is ambitious and energetic, and takes an interested part in all activities sponsored by the school.

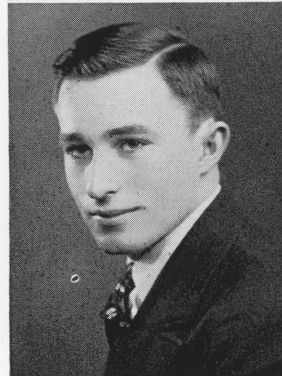

LOUIS A. MYERS

"Louie" is one of the most versatile athletes of St. Mary's. He played quarterback at football, was a forward during basketball season, was shortstop in the baseball nine, and was half of the champion senior handball combination. In spite of his stature, he has done much to promote "our" athletic standing.

ANTHONY NICOLOSI

"Nick" is St. Mary's one and only bell boy. Time Teller Nicolosi, the truest and most tactful time tabulator that ever tooted a time-telling telephone from Terre Haute to Timbuctoo, was the name he went by in the old days. His cheerful nature is appreciated by his classmates.

LEO PFEIFFER

Leo is the only horticulturist the senior class holds in captivity. His genial smile and unfading inquisitiveness have left his image in the memories of all the pupils of St. Mary's

Seniors

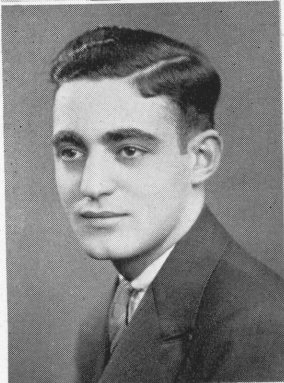

MAXINE PFEIFFER

Maxine is one of the sweetest girls in the senior class, and there is nothing she would not do for a friend. She is a good typist and member of the choir.

JENNIE RIZZO

Jennie possesses a rare quality—a quiet manner, and is willing to help at all times. She is head librarian of the school.

SAMUEL RIZZO

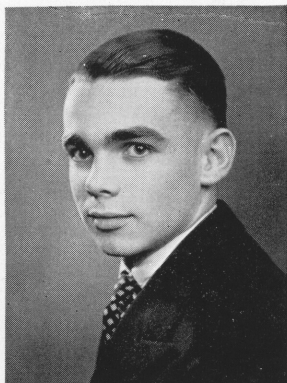

"Sam," a noted conversationalist, was president of the class in the sophomore year. His cheerful disposition and impromptu humor provide much entertainment for his friends.

MARY KATHERINE SCHILL

Loyalty to her friends is Mary K's chief attribute, and she does all she can to be helpful to them. She is also a willing worker who cooperates at all times.

Class of 1938

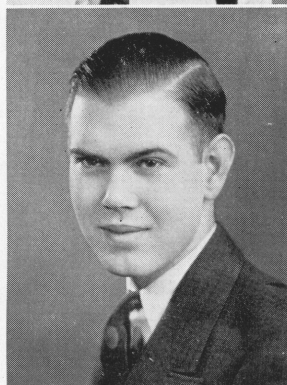

JOHN EDWARD SCHULER

He is the typical all-around athlete and scholar. He is unsurpassed in football, basketball, handball, and in scholarship. Jack, whose name appears in the basketball column on the honor plaque, is interested in everyone's worries as if they were his own.

ROSELLA SHEEHE

The word student suitably describes Rosella as she has proved herself above the average in all her studies. She is president of the Hiker's Club, and was given the high honor of crowning the statue of the Blessed Virgin in the May exercises.

WILLIAM TANNER

In his dignified manner, he has added his part to the joys of school life. His intellectual capacity is well suited to his six-foot physique. His editorials written for the Journal are a proof of his ability.

MARY JUNE TERZO

Mary June's genial disposition imparts a feeling of warmth wherever she goes. She has a fine alto voice, and is a valued member of the choir.

Seniors

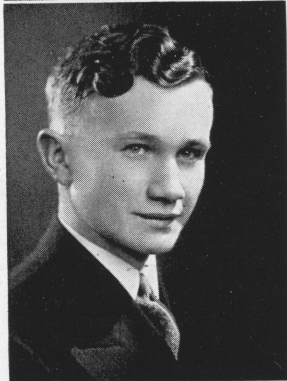

ANTHONY TODARO

Tony is a columnist for the Journal, and has contributed his bit to the cause. Though he is not really "Irish," he has the knack for singing Celtic songs. Last, but not least, he is a football letterman.

FLORENCE ULIANO

Florence, always cheerful and good-natured, is indeed a likeable girl. She is not only capable, but a helpful friend as well.

JOHN ANTHONY WELLS

John is the business man of the senior class. His general knowledge and interesting conversation are accepted with "Oh's" and "Ah's" and "I didn't know that."

FRANCES WERLEY

Capable and spirited are adjectives to describe Frances. She is director of the cheer leaders, is an officer of the sodality, and is well known for her generosity.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

SEPTEMBER 17, 1934, was an important date for our class for it marked the beginning of our high school career. We quickly acquired the ways and manners of high school pupils and chose Jack Schuler for our leader as class president. Assisting him were William Tanner, vice-president; Frances Werley, secretary, and Eleanor Cheney, treasurer. We gained membership in various organizations. Fanny Piacentino was elected president of the Glee Club. The Home Economic Club, composed mostly of freshman girls, and the Civics Club, composed entirely of freshman boys, were organized that year. A basket ball team organized by the boys appeared promising, and our hopes for future showing were raised.

In our second year, we elected Sam Rizzo, president; Joseph Gunder, vice-president; Angeline Cicero, secretary; and John Cochran, treasurer. Again we took an active part in school organizations, and held several activities of our own. In November, the boys were among the hosts sponsoring a stag party for the men of the parish at the Shovel Gym. In February, the whole class worked with the Juniors and Seniors for the success of the St. Mary Bazaar. Both affairs proved successful, and we were proud to have taken part in them. Several boys displayed promising ability in sports, and this year were really noticed for the first time. At the end of the school term, a picnic was held at Rye Beach.

The third year of high school brought the realization that we were nearing the end of our school days. With renewed ambition, we began the year's work. To lead us in our endeavors, we elected Frank Murphy, president; Jasper LaBarbara, vice-president; Fanny Piacentino, secretary; and Rosella Shehee, treasurer.

SENIORS' HISTORY

Four out of the five officers of the newly re-organized Cheero Club were elected from our class. Other officers of school organizations chosen from our class were the following: Walter Drake, assistant prefect of the Boys' Sodality; Fanny Piacentino, vice-prefect of the Children of Mary Sodality; Virginia Hurley, secretary, and Eleanor Cheney, counselor. Representing the girls in the Hikers' Club was Rosella Sheehe, president; Virginia Hurley as junior historian. Again we entered the sports field and claimed major honors with seven

The activities of the Cheero Club were resumed, and again three seniors were elected officers. Fanny Piacentino was elected prefect of the sodality, and was assisted by Frances Werley, secretary; and Rosella Sheehe, counselor. A successful bazaar was held in November, and December brought a pre-Advent party given for us by the sophomores and juniors, the arrival of our class jewelry, and—after Christmas—the Alumni dance. The Catholic Students' Mission Crusade became active, not only in our class, but throughout the school. Rosella Sheehe was elected to head this organization. In the social line were several sodality parties for the juniors on the basketball squad. Jack Schuler held the highest score, contributing 112 points in 17 games, while James Feidner was second with 102 points. At the end of the year we entertained the Seniors at a graduation breakfast at the Harding Hotel. The last edition of the St. Mary Journal for that year was published by our class.

On September 13, 1937, we started our fourth year—at last! With serious work and—as it seemed to us—many responsibilities ahead of us, we wisely selected the following officers: Frank Murphy, president; Jasper LaBarbara, vice-president; Fanny Piacentino, secretary; and John Cochran, treasurer. Work on the Journal was started immediately with Walter Drake as editor, and Frank Murphy as business manager.

girls, a banquet at which letters were presented to the boys who had merited that honor in football or basketball, and on Mother's Day, a mother-daughter breakfast was held. Soon after we observed class day and took part in the May procession. Honored in the latter exercise were Rosella Sheehe, chosen to crown the statue of the Blessed Virgin, and Fanny Piacentino, who acted as attendant.

Closing our last year in high school were two pleasant events—the class picnic at Rye Beach, and the graduation breakfast at the Harding Hotel.

And—the event long anticipated—graduation—came June 5, with Solemn Benediction as a fitting close to our happy school days at St. Mary.

Junior Class History

ON SEPTEMBER 13 to high school we came
No longer "sophies" but juniors in name,
With hope and with courage and brave, happy looks,
Determined to apply ourselves to our books—
To tackle our studies and conquer each one—
To remember that school means more than just "fun."
With typewriters new we wrestled for days,
To us, inexperienced, the keys were a maze.
Class officers we chose: Joe Fabian as chief;

Then with our reports there came great relief.

French, Latin, and chemistry weren't so bad
As we had expected. Many A's we had.
We helped our team by cheers loud and long,
And to the bazaar we went in a throng.

We worked for the paper, for the team, for the school,
"Be loyal to St. Mary's" was our never-failing rule.
"We congratulate you," now to the Seniors we say,
"May joy be yours on commencement day!"

Sophomore Class History

NO LONGER as “green” freshmen, but as “sophisticated” sophomores, the class of 1940 re-entered St. Mary’s on September 13. The class was large—43 boys and girls—eager to continue the traditions and high principles of the school.

At the first class meeting Warren Kerrigan was chosen president; Ray Robbins, vice-president; Patricia Lawler, secretary; and Martha Fabian, treasurer. New studies were to be mastered, but, like other seemingly difficult tasks, they were easy when they were studied and understood. Few school events passed in which the sophomores did not take part. Each occasion found them there, willing to do their best.

By uniting their efforts, the class won the drive for the bazaar—a half-holiday, and this same class also claims the pennant for contributions to the Sunday collections. Three of the girls joined the ranks of the cheer leaders, combining with other cheer leaders to gain support for those on the playing field in both basketball and football.

And so the school year drew to an end, with the sophomores preparing to become juniors when, from all indications, they will continue to display their school spirit and cooperation.

Freshman Class History

ON SEPTEMBER 13, 1937, St. Mary High School welcomed into its ranks 51 bewildered freshmen. But not for long were these boys and girls bewildered! A quick adjustment to the demands of high school work was made, and they were ready for a successful year.

The Freshmen selected as class officers the following: Herbert Divney, President; Anna Cochran, Vice-President; Richard Sherrer, Secretary.

Much to the upperclassmen's surprise, this class produced a fine lot of football and basketball players. The determination, as well as the size, of some of these boys helped pull St. Mary's through many a crucial game.

Swiftly the months passed, and, as the end of the year neared, it was with hope and expectation that the class of '41 looked forward. Next year—Sophomores; and more opportunities to uphold the traditions of St. Mary High.

THE FRESHMAN CLASS

FRONT ROW—Dorothy Jenner, Alice Byrnes, Pauline Gunder, Marjorie Martin, Elizabeth Ballenger, June Tobin, Jean Leser, Mary Galyk, Margaret Teets, Donna Mae Bender, Ruth Murphy.
